NEWBERRY, Wayne co., Ky., Sept. 26.

GENTLEMEN On Monday a company of eighty or one hundred from the reled caupps of Tennessee, aided by a few citizens of the county, rushed into Albany (more than half of the citizens being out of town), seized on about twenty guns and ammunition belonging to the Home Gnard, cutting down their flag, and committing other depredations; went to a store in the county, cut down a flag, broke open the store, took some guns, powder, and lead and what else they pleased, and left. It is reported to-day that there are about eight hundred Tennesseeans encamped within six miles of Albany, and it is thought their force will be angmented to two or three thousand in a day or two. The citizens are all leaving Albany. Great excitement prevails in the county. Fearing an attack would be NEWBERRY, Wavne co., Kv., Sept. 26. or three thousand in a day or two. FRIDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1861.

GOVERNOR MORTON'S ADDRESS TO THE PEOPLE OF INDIANA.-We call attention to this noble Address in our paper of to-day. Let the whole people of Kentucky, as well as the whole people of Indiana, read it. It is a strong and powerful appeal to our fellow-citizens of Indiana, who have already done so much for Kentucky, to come to her rescue in this great exigency with their entire strength, bearing in mind that only in Kentneky's safety can they find their own.

This call of the patriotic Morton upon the people of his State will endear him still more deeply to the people of Kentucky who already to him. He has been emphatically Kentucky's forces stationed upon her soil, and leave her guardian-spirit from the very commencement of the dangers that now darkly threaten her ficulties they have. Certainly the Confederate very existence, and she knows it. Kentucky and the whole country owe him a large debt of gratitude. Oh that all the public functionaries of the country were as vigilant, as clearsighted, as energetic, as fearless, and as chiv-

GENERAL ROUSSEAU'S APPOINTMENT.-WO announce with exceeding pleasure that Gen. Lovell H. Rousscau has been appointed Brig. adier-General by the U.S. Government. We thank the Government, and we congratulate Kentneky and the army of defence. The chivalry of our State never bore a nobler flower than Gen. Ronsseau.

We have known Lovell II. Rousseau for more than twenty years, and we never knew a more gallant, generous, and knightly spirit. His heart is as tender as a woman's and braver than a lion's. His whole soul overflows with the truest and best feelings of humanity, but he will fearlessly bare his breast in the front of armed hosts to the fiercest lightnings that ever burst from the cloud of battle.

Lonisville and Kentucky are under deep and lasting obligations to Gen. Rousseau, and they know it. He saw farther into the future than the rest of our fellow-citizens, and, forunnately for us all, he acted vigorously upon his foresight. If he had not, in spite of an opposition that would have discouraged almost any other man, raised those fine regiments as Camp Joe Holt, what, ere this, would have been the fate of Louisville? Who would there have been, in the hour of the late unexpected invasion, to march forward and interpose between her and the invading army?

A thousand cheers for Brigadier General Thermopyla although in one aspect a word of inspiration to men is in another a word of warning. It is the beacon of supineness a teaches a lesson which Kentnekians, in this crisis of the destiny of their country and of their

State, should earnestly heed. When Xerxes set out for the invas Greece, a congress of deputies from the Greek States met at the Isthmus of Corinth for the purpose of making arrangements to resist the invader. The congress wisely resolved that the invader should be encountered at the pass of Thermopylæ, a narrow defile in Northern Greece, and Leonidas, with a detachment of Spartans and other Peloponnesians, was sent forward to occupy the pass. The body of the Grecian force, however, did not follow Leonidas and his men. On the contrary, the Greeks in general remained at home to attend the Olympic festival and the festival of the Carnean Apollo, persuaded, notwithstanding the foot of the invader was already upon the soil of Greece, that it would be time enough to go to the relief and reinforcement of Leonidas when two or three weeks distant the approaching games should be over. They stayed at home, not, indeed, to protect their families, they had too much military sense for that, but to amuse themselves. Meanwhile, Xerxes, at the head of one of the largest armies ever assembled on this globe, came up to Thermopyla, and attacked Leonidae; who, repulsing the flower of the Persian army with a havoc that caused Xerxes to leap in rage ont of the throne from which he watched the battle, held the mighty host at bay for the space of two mortal days, when, a traitor having revealed at last the secret mountain path that led to the rear of Leonidas, the Persians surrounded the hero and his band, and cut them to pieces, leaving imperishable. Such is Thermopylæ. Do we want a Thermopylæ in Kentneky? God forbid! and yet one seems all but impending. The Legislature, deliberating not unlike the Isthmian Congress of old on the means of resisting the invader, has resolved that the invader shall be expelled, and Leonidas, with his band of heroes, has gone forward to his post; but, though the invading legions are drawn up in battle array and in overpowering strength before this devoted phalanx, a portion of our people, neglecting their vanguard as the Greeks neglected theirs when the myriads of Xerxes hung above it like a thunder-cloud, are as inactive and supine as if the shadow of danger had not crossed their minds or had crossed only to paralyze and stupefy them. How long shall this suicidal apathy endure? Shall it last until our brave defenders on the railway and in the mountains, like their deathless prototypes at Thermopylee, shall be overwhelmed and cut to pieces, and the invader, flushed with a sanguinary victory, takes up his nnobstructed march for the Capital? or shall it give way at once to such energy and ardor as will enable our Spartan heroes to beat back and beat down the invader and sweep him ignominatously rom our soil? In a word, shall we have a Thermopylain Kentucky or a Marathon?

Greece to expiate at Salamis and Platze the supineness which abandoned her immortal vanguard to a fate that was almost as unnecessary

Of one thing let us rest assured. If w hazard the former, the glory will belong exclusively to the heroes who fall, whilst the shame alone will belong to Kentucky. Our Thermopylæ, if we should ignobly risk one, could shed no lustre on the Commonwealth though it would shed disgrace, and might draw down destruction. Fntnre history, more sternly just than the history of the past, will adjudge that the fame of men who die vainly yet nobly for their country, great and undying as such fame may be, is not greater and more undying than the infamy of the country which voluntarily permits its defenders so to die. In the eye of Christian civilization, the heroism of a Thermopylse, sunbright as it is, can have no charm to gild the enormous dereliction that calls for or onffers the display.

The Louisville Journal and Democrat, for several days past, have moderated their tone of violence. It is a good indication and has a significant meaning.—Frankfort Froman.

We can't accept the Yeoman's praise in this case. We are aware of no change in our tone. We have not been violent, but we have been earnest and out-spoken, and we hope we are so But how about the Yeoman's tone? What has been the effect of late events upon that Can any one conceive the yell of a byens subsiding suddenly into the squeak of a dormouse-or the scream of a hawk into the switter of a tomtit?

Kentucky. — The telegraph informs as that Gov. Magofin has issued his proclamation, requiring the Confederate troops to leave the State. This proceeding, with the action of the Lagislature, makes this the action of the State. It is competent for the Confederate authorities to regard it as a cause belli, maintain their positions and assail their enemies wherever they find them. But it is our privilege, also, to respect the proclamation of the Governor, if we choose to do so, and promptly withdraw our forces and leave the people of the State to estile their difficulties in their own way. If they prefer civil war among themselves or quiet submission to the Lincoln despotism, it is their affair. This latter course is recommended by the grave consideration that our Confederacy is based upon the principle of State sovereignty, and that we desire no member who does not enter it willingly and cheerfully. It may be that tha present Legislature does not represent the wishes of the majority of the people; but of that fact we have no official cognizance. The people themselves must make that appear by a change of their agents. While our authorities are privileged to treat the conduct of the State as either warlike or pacific, it might not be a bad etroke of policy to regard it in the latter aspect, and leave the fate of tha State in its own hands.

The Richmond Whig says truly that the esolutions of the Kentucky Legislature, requiring the Confederate troops to leave this State, and the proclamation of the Governor issued in pursuance of those resolutions, make the requirement the action of the State to all lently inclines to the opinion, that the South-State sovereignty, should respect the action of people to settle in their own way whatever dif-Government would adopt this policy towards but it has none; its boasted respect for doesn't willingly permit State rights or anything else to stand in the way of the accomplishment of its purposes, whatever they may be. Although the fundamental doctrine upon got up was that every State has a sacred right to choose its own position and its own associa tions without molestation or interference from any other State or States or any power whatever, yet the Confederate States, because Kentucky decides to remain in the Union and asks to be free from invasion, propose to subjugate her, to ohtain possession of her "at the price of blood and conquest," to seize her revenue and ompel her to pay tribute to them, to annex her to themselves and make her a portion of their domain against her own will and in defiance of her life-and-death struggles. The Richmond organ thinks, that, although the very principle upon which the Souther

Confederacy is based requires that Kentnek should be left free to keep the position which as a State she has chosen, and although i might be best for the Confederate Government to respect the principle in Kentucky's case, the functionaries of that Government have a per feet right to consider Kentucky's attempted maintenance of the principle good cause of war againsts her, good cause to subdue her, to co- would be kept back for no such reason. TO THE PEOPLE OF INDIANA. In the progress of events, this wicked and nn-iatural rebellion, having for its object the over-the w of our Government and the enbyersion of ur institution, has extended into our neighbor-ing State of Kentucky. On several occasions within the last few months the people of Ken-nicks, by acquiring majorities, have declared by overwhelming majorities, have declared avalty to the Union, and their determinao adhere to the Constitution. There is, ser, within her borders a deeperate and factorinority who are determined, at all hazards, ange the State into revolution and all the this atrocious attempt to coerce a loyal State rebellion, they are aided by large bodies of allow seeding.

To this wa are prompted by every consideration of hope, interest, and affection. All that we are, all that we hope to be, is in issue. Our cause is the boliest for which arms wera ever taken up, involving, as it does, the existence of our Government, and all that is valuable and dear to a free excellent.

If other considerations are required than those bell of other considerations are required than those of the ward avortion to our cause, they may be found in the fact that the war has reached our own borders, and that if the energy and insolence of the rehels are not promptly mat and punished, our own soil is not secure from pollution by an army of traitors.

I therefore call upon all man capable of bearing arms, and who can leave their homes, lo cast aside their ordinary pursuits, and enroll themselves in the ranks of the army. Let the farmer leave his plough, the merchant his store, the machanic his workshop, the banker his exchange, and the professional man his office, and devote themselves to their country, and by enrolling themselves to the service of the General Government or under the unlitary law of the State, be prepared to defend their country and their homes. Every man in the State capable of bearing arms should be in the service of the General in an aprivate interests submit to the ovarruling arms should be in the service of the General in the state of the bour, and let us show to the world by the sacrifice we are willing to make in seed and private interests submit to the ovarruling themselves to retain the inheritance thay have bequeathed to us.

Senator Carlisle, who has been here several COL. ORMSBY'S REGIMENT-To the Young Men ays, went home this mcrning. He gave a cher-g account of affairs in Western Virginia. To-day, a recuting party of cavalry went a ile beyond Falls Church, but asw only a small of Kentucky.—By the authority and for the service of the Government of the United States, I propose to organize in Kentucky a Regiment of Infantry, to serve three years or during the war, to consist of ten companies, each company to contain not less than eighty-four, nor more than one hundred and four, rank and file.

Captains of companies will report to ma at the eket gnard of rebels. An intelligent lady has sched here from Winchester and states that all lasses of society there speak of the vital necessi-y of the rebels winning a great victory opposite vachington. Their retreat would cause a most istressing effect. Captains of companies will report to me at the alt llouse, in Louisville, as soon as practicable.

Galt House, in Louisville, as soon as practicable. No company must be removed from its point of organization until ordered into carp. Transportation to the point of rendezvous will be furnished. None but active, vigorous men, and men of steady bebits, will be received

The Lieutenant-Colonel and Major are to be selected by the officers.

Pay will commence on the day of enlistment. Most of the gallant fellows who served with me in Mexico are still able and willing, thank God! to bear arms for their country. Raily, freemen! Companies will go int camp immediately.

McDaniels of the special service, went to Harper's Ferry and recovered two valuable bells belonging to our Government, one of which weighed 1,290 pounds and the other 300 pounds, together with a five engine and other articles. On the same day they arrested a Mr. Magraw who had been engaged in robbing the Unionists for the benefit of the rebels. Letters were found on his person showing that he was in constant communication with the rebel leaders.

The officers confiscated his mules, wagons, and other articles. The four large pieces of ordnauce which were recently recovered from Harper's Ferry have been litted up in an ingenious manuer by Captain Scribner, and frequently pay their respects to the enemy. The same officer has collected large quantities of railroad spikes, which he wires in suitable bundles and discharges them in place of cannister shot. He decleres that he can keep the whole rebel army from crossing here with these novel projecties.

It is stated that Captain McMalan tried to seduce his command from duty before leaving Fort Laranie for Weshington.

Rumors being prevalent involving military changes, it is accertained on enquiry at the War Denartment that no orders have been issued to Major Gen. Fremont to report himself for trial by court martial. It is true that General Mansfield bas heen appointed to the command of Fortress Monroe, but Gen. Wool, when he superseded, has been assigned to no other duty.

BALTIMORE. Oct. 3.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 3. BALTIMORE, Oct. 3.

Passengers by the boat which arrived this morning from Old Point report that Gen. Wool addressed the prisoners at the Rip Raps, who had been sent there by General McClellan en route for Tortugas. He told them, that, had McClellan shot them on the spot for rebelling in the face of the enemy, he would have been perfectly justified. He had, however, a proposition to make to them. All who were willing to place themselves in his hands should step forward three paces. Those who refused would proceed to Tortugas. The entire 160 stepped forward and many were so effected that they shed teers of joy.

General Wool has not left Fortress Monroe, and passengers who arrived by the Old Point. assily carried, should constitute a part of the supply which every soldier ought to take with him.

General Wool has been left by the Old Point steamboat this morning have no knowledge of any contemplated change in that department.

A special despatch to the St. Louis Repulican, from Leff rson City, says:

Dr. White says he heard, on his way here, that 1.800 rebels had pirted from the main body and marched towards Georgetown, with the intention of taking that place before reinforcements could arrive from Jetlerson City.

A miller who left Georgetown vesterday morning, says he was turned back by the enemy's pickets, twelve miles from that town.

Dr. White believes that the rebels have no idea of quitting the State, but intend to make a demonstration, in vast numbers, upon Georgetown, Jefferson City, and St. Louis, and that they are perfectly confident of their ability that take them. No immediate attack is feared on Georgetown, and our forces thore are prepared to receive the A special despatch to the St. Louis Repulican.

Dr. White thinke that the rebels will endeavor to get between us and the force at Georgetown and surround and cut off Davis and Sigel and then meet Fremont near this place. The rebel force has nineteen field pieces and are expecting rifled cannon from the Sonth. Gen. Price told the Doctor that the Southern Confederacy hed loaned the State of Missonri one million dollars for the purpose of carrying on the war against the Federal Government. The rebel troops are confident of victory and ere clamoring to be led against Fremont. Dr. White gives a sorry statement in regard to the conduct of the rebels towards the wounded at Lexington. They took away from him all his hospital stores, not leaving him even a sponge.

A portion of Price's force had moved towards Independence. There were but about three hundred men in Warrenshurg when Dr. White passed through there. He thinks Price's force numbers full 40,000.
